Financial Literacy Month Standards Series

You won't want to miss out on this! To support your teaching during Financial Literacy Month, CEE is offering a webinar series going over the six core standards of personal finance. These six areas offer young people a base level of knowledge they should acquire for their financial lives.

Our highly rated master teacher, Dr. Cynthia Fitzthum, will be diving into topics that not only meet the standards, but will open up the eyes of your students to the financial realities that they may not be aware of. We hope to see you throughout the month! Personal Finance Standards 1-6 Series Archives - EconEdLink

Calling all high school and middle school students in Kentucky! Are you ready to test your financial skills and compete for amazing prizes? Look no further than the Kentucky Personal Finance Challenge.

This online competition is your chance to show off your knowledge about managing money. Team up with three to four classmates and tackle a 30-question online exam between Feb. 19 and March 22.

Top teams will advance to the exciting in-person state finals at Northern Kentucky University on April 5. State champions will win travel and accommodation to compete in the prestigious National Personal Finance Challenge in Cleveland, Ohio on May 19-20.

Teachers: Don't miss out. Register your teams by March 8 to give them the chance to shine. For more information and to register visit Kentucky Personal Finance Challenge

Kentucky Jump$tart Coalition: Win in Financial Literacy with Contests, Awards and More!

The Kentucky Jump\$tart Coalition is a non-profit organization that promotes financial literacy and education in Kentucky. They are part of the America Saves program, which encourages saving habits nationwide. For information about Kentucky Saves Campaign, visit America Saves | Connect to a Campaign.

The Kentucky Saves Week Video Contest is open to students in grades 5-12 and focuses on themes like financial responsibility and planning for the future. There are cash prizes for winners and the deadline to enter is March 29.

The Coalition also offers awards for educators and students who excel in financial literacy. The Teacher of the Year Award comes with a scholarship and travel stipend, while the Student of the Year Award offers a $500 cash prize. The deadlines to apply for these awards are May 31 and April 30, respectively.

A Limited-Run, Special Sale, at The Jump$tart Online Store

The Jump\$tart Online Store is a fundraiser selling Jump$tart and financial literacy merchandise to support scholarships for the Jump$tart National Educator Conference. It offers hoodies, polos, hats, and "I teach kids about money" t-shirts.

Sale ends March 5. All orders will be shipped in time for the start of Financial Literacy Month.

Teen Teach-In Sign-ups, Deadline March 7

Throughout the month of April, high school teachers across the country will mark Financial Literacy Month by participating in Jump\$tart's Teen Teach-In, where high school students visit their local elementary school to teach their younger counterparts about money. The goal of the Teen Teach-In is to raise awareness about the importance of getting effective financial education in every K-12 classroom in America. If you are interested in participating in this fun and important event, Jump\$tart's Teen Teach-In. And if you are ready to sign up right now, start the adventure at Jump\$tart Teen Teach-In - Jump\$tart Coalition.
